CAREER OUTCOMES REPORT

2021-2022

2021-2022 SUMMARY

Introduction

This report contains career outcomes or “first destination data” collected by the Center for Career Development & Academic Exploration (CCDAE) for the class of 2022: August 2021, December 2021, and May 2022 graduates.

Methodology

The CCDAE follows first destination survey protocols set forth by the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE) and participates in NACE’s annual data collection. The center utilizes 12Twenty, a student outcomes reporting platform and database. Staff collected data on graduates through a variety of means including: emails, phone calls, in-person events, information collected by academic departments, institutional records, and social media outlets, e.g., LinkedIn. Data is collected up to six months past graduation.

Outcomes

NACE defines knowledge rate as “the percent of graduates for which the institution has reasonable and verifiable information concerning the graduates’ postgraduation career activities.” Of graduating bachelor’s students, the overall knowledge rate is 81 percent, up from 75 percent last year. The target rate designated by NACE is 65 percent. Knowledge rates for the nine undergraduate colleges range from 68 percent to 93 percent. Because a significant amount of outcomes is collected second hand through social media searches, salary data is lacking. Additionally, students are often hesitant to share their salaries even when providing their outcomes directly.

Gathering career outcomes for graduate students is more challenging, and the knowledge rate is 63 percent for master’s students and 77 percent for doctoral students. The CCDAE continues to look at new methods of increasing UT’s knowledge rate and improving the quality of the data. Some departments and colleges, particularly those that are considered “professional programs,” collect career outcomes data to meet requirements set forth by accrediting bodies. Specifically, the colleges of Nursing and Social Work report data for their graduates. Graduate business programs in Haslam College of Business and the College of Law also collect and report data. While the CCDAE and colleges share data as reported here, individual colleges can be contacted for more detailed information.

The infographic that follows presents highlights of the career outcomes data for 2022 bachelor’s graduates. The following pages contain all data collected by degree type and by college major. The rate of bachelor’s students employed six months post-graduation is 64 percent, up from 61 percent in 2021. The percentage of students reporting continued education is 26 percent. With a positive career outcome rate of 90 percent and an additional 2 percent reporting “not seeking,” just 8 percent of students are still seeking jobs or education six months beyond graduation. It is likely that some of that 8 percent did in fact achieve an outcome but did not report it to the university.

The median salary increased this year, from $51,365 in 2021 to $56,284, likely in part to a robust job market. Salary statistics for graduate students by program are not provided due to inadequate data.

Terms and Categories

To understand the data that follows, it is necessary to define key terminology. Employed includes full- time and part-time employment, military service, and work with a service organization such as AmeriCorp. For bachelor’s graduates, 60.8 percent of the employed category were employed full-time with 1.9 percent employed part-time, 0.8 percent in the military, and 0.2 percent in service organizations. Continuing education includes students pursuing graduate degrees or additional bachelor’s degrees. Not seeking includes a variety of reasons, such as starting a family, taking more than four months off, studying abroad, research, or artistic pursuits. Seeking employment and seeking continuing education are self-explanatory. In some cases, students may have secured an outcome, but the university was not able to update the student’s status because no additional information was reported or collected.

2021-2022 EMPLOYMENT

Over the course of the year, approximately 900 unique organizations engaged with students through job fairs, networking events, panels, employer of the day, and other programs. Additionally, 100,000 jobs from thousands of employers were posted on the Handshake platform for UT students to access. Some students find employment opportunities through engagement with university sponsored events and others will find jobs through their own networking and searching. Over 2,000 distinct organizations hired graduates from the class of 2022. Below are the top hiring organizations for our bachelor's graduates.

2021-2022 SALARIES

Salary data is more challenging to collect as not all students will report it, and data collected from alternative means, such as LinkedIn profiles, will not include salaries. UT's salary varies widely by college and major. The mean and median have been steadily rising each year. Because the number of salary data points for graduate students is not sufficient, only college means and medians are reported.
