MFLL Senior Works with Immigrant Communities at Home and Abroad

Shannon Perrone is a senior in Language and World Business. Her research focuses on how the immigrant experience of moving to a new country, adapting to new customs, and learning a new language, affects elementary children in a classroom setting. See her full research story here.

3 Minutes to Win It Voting is Live

We had three submissions for this year's 3 Minutes to Win It Research Challenge. We need your help in determining which video is the "Fan Favorite". The most voted video will win an iPad Mini. Vote now!

Represent UT in Dublin, Ireland

Submit your work to the largest pan-discipline international awards program for undergraduate research. Students from class of 2019, 2020, and 2021 are eligible. Top 10% winners are invited to attend the Global Summit in Dublin in the Fall. The deadline to submit is June 2.

Join us for a seminar on How and Why to Submit on April 22 at 3pm.

Show Us Your Research!

Continuing your research from home? Share it with us! Post a photo on your Instagram or Twitter of you doing research at home using the hashtag #volresearch and your image will be shared on our social media accounts. Make sure your profile is set to "Public" or we won't be able to see it.

Are You Doing Research for UT This Summer?

If so, we want to know! Register to be a Summer Research Scholar and join us for a jam-packed summer full of VIRTUAL research activities, professional development seminars, and social events. The Summer Research Scholars program is open to all undergraduates (UT and non-UT students) conducting research for UT - on campus or virtually - this summer. Participants will have the opportunity to mingle with other like-minded researchers from all over the nation and across the globe.
